Steve Coursey to attend Boys' State

STEVE COURSEY: With Joseph Beaton, Legislator and High School teacher.

High School Senior Steve Coursey, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coursey of Frederick Drive has been named by the Wilmington Post of the American Legion to attend Boys State, this summer. Coursey, football star and scholar, will leave on June 16th for one week at Assumption College in Worcester, the site of Boys State.

One outstanding youth from each High School in the state is named to attend Boys State, which has a heavy emphasis on Government. Coursey was named by a committee headed by Joseph P. Beaton, past commander of the Wilmington Post.

Coursey is also busy on a water buffalo project, for Bangladesh. He is one of half a dozen members of the Senior Class in the Congregational Church Sunday School engaged in the project.

They are devoting their time to the raising of $125 for the purchase of a water buffalo, to be presented to a refugee family in that country. The water buffalo is said to give the best milk of any animal in that part of Asia. So far Coursey and friends have raised $75.

Dynamiting draws Protests

Dynamite blasts from excavations in the former Benevento gravel pit have caused the Town Manager to order the Wilmington Engineering Department to exactly locate the source of the blasts.

Two Wilmington residents, Clarence Gould and Frank Hofman have complained to the Chief of the Fire Department about the blasts. Both live in the so-called "lost colony", which can be reached only by going through North Reading, in the Martin's Pond section.

There are cracks in some of the windows of the Gould home, said to have been caused by the blast, and both men told the Town Crier that the homes and lawns of nearby homes in North Reading have had stones and gravel fall on them, as the result of the blasting.

The homes are approximately 1000 feet from the site of the blasting. Wilmington town employees, at work in the Town Garage, have also told the Town Crier that they felt the blasts. They are about 3000 feet from the approximate site of the blasting.

A court imposed agreement of five or six years ago limits the areas of work that may be used for gravel excavations, in the former Benevento gravel pit.

Reading Light protests scheduled rate increase

The Reading Municipal Light Department has protested the latest move of the Boston Edison Company, which supplies electric power to eastern Massachusetts. Their attorney has been instructed to prepare a protest to the Federal Power Commission, in the interest of all of the customers of Reading Light, in Wilmington, Reading, North Reading and Lynnfield.

The Boston Edison recently filed, with the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, an application for a rate increase of approximately 25% applicable to Reading Light.

This, coupled with the former increase filed in 1971 (also under protest by Reading Light) brings the total request for increases to 55% on the wholesale costs to Reading Light, in a little more than a year.

The Boston Edison filing with the Mass. DPU is equally applicable to all rates, for all consumers, residential, commercial and industrial.

Fireworks raise Protests

For two weeks past the people of Wilmington have been subjected to an increasing crescendo of fireworks, fire crackers and such, mostly from the hands of teen age and other youths.

Fire crackers have been exploded in the schools. From all parts of Wilmington there have been complaints, addressed to the Wilmington Police, three and four complaints sometimes, in a five minute period of time.

Saturday morning, at 2 am, what sounded like two full sets of fire crackers, were set off in the North Wilmington parking lot. The noise was terrific. The police telephone was besieged with calls, as were the telephones of some of the Selectmen, calls coming from North Wilmington residents.

Police and Selectmen went to the North Wilmington parking lot, and the youngsters there were sent home - at least they were told to go home. They did leave the parking lot. They did this, too. Until last Friday the North Wilmington parking lot was kept clean, and quiet. There were twenty cars parked there at 10 pm Friday, more than usual, and more kept coming in, until two am. The Wilmington police are viewing the situation grimly. But things are not as bad in Wilmington as they are in Tewksbury.

It's still a Fishing Pond

The fish pond of Robert Corey, subject to a story in last week's Town Crier is still a fish pond. It has not been drained, and it seems as if there will be no drainage for several weeks. Mr. Corey has stopped all work, on the request of Town Manager Sterling Morris, and a Hatch Act hearing is possible.

Corey owns some 36 acres of industrial land, on which the pond is located. The old gravel pit was rezoned to industry about ten years ago, for no apparent reason. No industry has ever located there. Corey has since bought the old Salem & Lowell RR right-of-way and has installed a gate at the entrance. Once upon a time the town voted to accept that right of way as a street - Ainsworth Street, but the then Town Manager, known as the Bump on the Log, failed to have the vote recorded with the Middlesex Registry of Deeds.

A street water betterment, voted at the same time for a water main, still holds. The Jensen farm, nearby, has been paving betterments for ten years - perhaps the worst deal that any Wilmington residents ever had.

The land owned by Coursey was once offered to the Wilmington Water Department, but the Water Department rejected the offer.

Joe Gallagher is West Point Grad

Cadet Joe Gallagher of West Point, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Gallagher of Morse Avenue recently graduated from the United States Military Academy.

Well known in Wilmington, Joe was a newspaper boy, and a member of Troop 63, Boy Scouts of America, who rose to the rank of Life Scout.

He was appointed to West Point by Representative F Bradford Morse. Gallagher is believed to be the first man from Wilmington to be a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy.

Cadet Gallagher received a Bachelor of Science degree. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Military Police Corps. He was a 1967 graduate of Austin Prep. in Reading, while at West Point, Cadet Gallagher was vice-president of the Newman Forum, and was a member of the Scuba Diving Club and the Honor Committee. During his senior year, he held the rank of Cadet Sergeant.

Corp. Magliozzi, State Police

Robert F. Magliozzi of Gundersen Road was promoted to the rank of Corporal in the Uniformed Branch of the Massachusetts State Police on May 18th.

Corporal Magliozzi who served for three years with the U.S. Army (part of that time, also as a Corporal), joined the State Police Force in April of 1962 and is currently assigned in Southboro.

HELEN GILBRIDE DRONEY
FIFTH DISTRICT CANDIDATE

Mrs. Helen Gilbride Droney of Lowell has announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for election Congress in the Fifth District.

Of the seven candidates already, Mrs. Droney is the only woman. The post she seeks was long filled by a woman, the late Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, a Republican, who served for over three decades prior to her death in 1960. Mass. has two other Congresswomen, Margaret Heckler and Louise Day Hicks.

"My decision to run is based partly on the fact that after reviewing the records and statements of the politicians who seek the nomination, I know I can do a better job," said Mrs. Droney. "My roots are deep in this district. I am part of it. I was born in it and have lived in it all my life. I know the district's needs and I know what kind of legislation is needed to ease these needs. Even more importantly, I know the people of this district."

"Taxes rise astronomically and no politician has come up with an effective method of curbing their rise. Yet there are methods available, but there are too many elected officials who use their office to enrich themselves, who refuse to take the hard road of snub the special interests."

"The rising cost of living poses a problem that every family faces, and these are the problems that politicians refuse to face."

"Government can work, if an anti-establishment representative is elected. I am such a candidate."

Miceli says he's a Candidate

Jamesway Studios
To the People of Wilmington:

I would like to announce the candidacy of James R. Miceli for the position of State Representative, serving Wilmington and Ward 6 of Woburn. I feel it is now time to tap the energies and talents of the man who has served Wilmington, Middlesex County and Massachusetts so dedicatedly for the past decade. But please don't take my word for it. Ask the following question of yourself and seek your own answer.

What does it take to make the kind of representative people deserve, want, and need? I think it takes a man experienced in the problems of the people of his district. A man with an education sufficiently specialized to prepare him for government service. A man who can converse knowledgeably and authoritatively with senior legislators and government executives. A man sensitive to the needs of labor with its current unemployment distresses, as well as culture through education, the arts, recreation and conservation. A man forced to pay exorbitant real estate taxes and automobile insurance rates unjustly foisted upon the people of Massachusetts.

A man interested in government as a public service career and not hobby of the vested gentry. If your answers match mine, they you've described Jim Miceli.

Over the past ten years Jim has gained governmental experience as a two-term Selectman, a member of the Planning Board, the Citizens Advisory Planning Council, the Electric Light Study Committee, and the Air and Noise Pollution Study, the Ipswich Watershed Commission, and the Wilmington Jaycees.

His education appropriately features a Bachelor of Science degree from Northeastern University with a Management major and a Law minor; Federal Funding Seminars in 1967 and 1969 at the U.S. Senate in Washington; and Legislative Seminars (1970) at the Massachusetts State House.

Jim has worked closely and most effectively with senior government officials on the Commission to Study Lowering the Age of Majority in Massachusetts as an appointee of Governor Sargent; as a member of the Massachusetts Selectman's Association; the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards; the Massachusetts League of cities and towns; the MBTA Advisory Board; and as a State Convention officer and delegate.

He has successfully terminated Wilmington work stoppages through mediation; regularly assisted town labor and management at the negotiation table; and found jobs for countless unemployed members of our community.

At the same time Jim has endeavored to round out our area by being a prime mover in the acquisition of a new Public Library; by serving on the Ad Hoc School Building Committee; as a member of the Audubon Society; local religious and fraternal organizations; and as a sponsor of athletic teams and a patron of recreation.

Jim Miceli (a member of the Massachusetts Taxpayers' Federation) has raised his family (wife Jean, children Hope 12, James 9 and Christina 2) in two different homes in Wilmington, and thereby, feels the sting of an oppressive, spiraling property tax. He now pays "confiscatory" insurance rates on two cars himself, but has battled insurance companies to the point where he has been branded a maverick by the industry.

James R. Miceli has been prepared for public service on the state level by serving you, the public in the many ways I have enumerated. He now seeks to apply these hard earned talents as your Representative.

Therefore, I entreat you to ask yourself what you really want in a State Representative; then investigate the alternatives; and see if you don't conclude that James R. Miceli should be your choice in November.

Respectfully submitted,
Joseph P. Beaton, Jr.

DOG OWNERS

All dogs have to be registered (licensed) for the year 1972. Registration date was April 1. The dog officer of Wilmington is about to impose and perhaps destroy all unlicensed dogs.

You can save yourself a lot of trouble and a $10 fine by paying your registration now. Pay at the office of the Town Clerk, in Wilmington Town Hall.

The last annual Town Meeting voted a by-law that will provide an extra fine of $1. It has not yet been signed by the attorney general, but it will soon be.

Pay now, and save yourself another dollar.
Joseph Balestrieri
Dog Officer of Wilmington

MOSQUITO PROGRAM

Each evening, five evenings a week, the Town of Wilmington sends out a team of men from the Tree Department, to spray against mosquitoes. This generally starts about 8 pm and lasts until 11.

Unfortunately, there are many children who feel it is fun to chase the spraying vehicle.

They endanger themselves in doing this. The hour is late, and there is a good chance that they might be killed by a passing motorist.

The parents of these children will have to make their choice. Stop the kids from chasing, or we will stop the anti-mosquito program.

Sterling Morris
Town Manager

WILMINGTON POLICE DEPARTMENT Mis-Use of Fireworks

The Revised Statutes of Massachusetts, Chapter 148, Section 39 prohibits the possession, use, or sale of fireworks in this Commonwealth. Fines of up to $100 may be imposed on a conviction, or sentences of up to one month in the House of Correction, or both.

This is to serve notice that the Wilmington Police Department intends to fully prosecute anyone caught violating the above section of Chapter 148.

The assistance of the public is invited.

Suburban pony League

The Wildcats playing in the West Division of the twelve team Suburban Pony League opened their season on May 27th with a 6-2 win over the Reading Astros behind the seven hit pitching of Charlie Sullivan. Sully walked three, while whiffing nine in a very strong performance as both Astro's runs were unearned. Ken Kumm and Mark Blaisdell led the hitting attack with a pair of singles each.

The Mavericks opened their East Division slate with a 10-7 triumph over the Reading Y's Men on May 27th. Barry Foster was the winning hurler despite walking 12 batters. Brian Phillips (3 for 4 and a walk) and Jimmy Sugrue (2 for 4 including 3 rbi's) led the hitting attack.

Both clubs tasted defeat on Memorial Day as the North Reading Red Sox scored six runs in the last of the eighth frame to over come a 5-3 Maverick lead to defeat Larry Foster's club, 8-5. Brian Phillips took the loss, his initial of the season. Meanwhile the Wildcats were dropping a 5-3 decision to the North Reading Braves as Coach Everett's squad could not hold onto a first inning 3-0 lead.

Last Saturday the Stoneham Eagles shut out the Wildcats, 7-0 as Charlie Sullivan was victimized by some shoddy fielding in the first two innings to give the Eagles a 5-0 lead. The Mavericks lost their second in a row, 3-1 to the Stoneham Falcons as Barry Foster evened his record at 1-1.

Tuesday evening the Wildcats were edged by the Reading Jets, 3-2 as the Wilmington boys committed three costly errors to provide the Jets with all of their runs. In 14 2-3 innings for Charlie Sullivan and 7 2-3 for Doug Stewart neither was given up an earned run.

The big game is Saturday..... Squirt A's: A squad topped a scrappy Billerica team on May 28th as Richard Robinson continued his scoring streak (1 goal), but could not duplicate his four goal output of May 21st. The game was highlighted by good solid defense and effective offense led by Mark Hurley's two goals.

Last Sunday the boys outscored Danvers, 7-4 with Robinson scoring a pair of markers to continue his hot streak. Other goal scorers were: Jim McCann, Peter Gunn, Jim Burns, Hookie La Liberti and Bobby Greenberg.

A big game is coming up tomorrow evening at the Youth Arena with Stoneham providing the opposition in a 5:10 pm face-off.

Bantam A's: On May 25th at the Youth Arena in a non-league game with Jack Pellerin's Bantam team, Wilmington's Bantam A's were squeezed out by a score of 7-6. Both teams performed well.

 Do you knot that flat paints may vary from the top to the bottom of the can unless they are stirred? The color, even the make-up of the paint, may be different.
 Always stir paint before using it. Use a lifting motion to bring the thicker paint up toward the surface of the can and to get it evenly suspended throughout the paint. Be thorough.
 A few moments spent this way at the beginning of the job saves many hours if the paint is not satisfactory once it's on your walls.
 Save many hours by beginning handyman jobs with a stop for supplies at Sweeney Home-Courtesy Center, 615 Main St., 658-2061. We handle a full line of Pittsburgh Paints and can mix 720 shades for your choice - bring your samples to us. Hours: 8 am to 5 pm daily and 8 am to 9 pm on Friday. We also maintain a large unfinished furniture department including the hardwoods.
 Charge with Bank Americard or Master Charge.
 Helpful Hint: Before painting, wipe surfaces with solvent or detergent.

TOWN CRIER OF WILMINGTON, THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1972

Letters

Dear Larz:

I was very interested in the letter by Mr. D.E. Wiberg which appeared in your June 1st, 1972 issue of the Town Crier, concerning school alternatives. On behalf of the School Committee and the Administration, I feel compelled to attempt to answer it since Mr. Wiberg has raised an important issue which must be considered by every voter.

I do appreciate Mr. Wiberg's position regarding the "new vs. old" alternatives. I can't recall another single issue that has been discussed and talked about as much as the need for more school space during the past two years. It is hard to find anything new about this topic. From our vantage point, we often feel that we have talked the building situation to death. What we really are looking for now is some action to help relieve this massive problem.

My concern in this letter, however, is Mr. Wiberg's thought that perhaps the School Committee has not explored any alternatives other than those which involve school construction. Perhaps other voters share the same feeling and, if so, this matter should be straightened out. Mr. Wiberg lists two other alternatives which I feel require a response.

To suffer with the facilities we have and hope for a predicted population decrease to occur would indeed be painful. At this writing we have just completed our first computer run for next year's High School schedule. We know now that our room utilization for next year is already well over 99%. In fact, we have only one room that is free for two hours during the week.

We are, once again, having to deny youngsters many choices in some of the minor areas. Courses of study are in great danger of having to be "watered down" into fewer periods and larger enrollments. All this at precisely a time when the last thing that Wilmington needs is a diluted program. The predicted drop in school enrollment, even if it does actually happen, will not have any appreciable effect on our school programs for at least twelve or thirteen more years. True, our long-range prediction shows an anticipated drop of 10 students at the high school in 1979, but by then our enrollment will be in excess of 1600 pupils. This can hardly be

TRUSTEES OF THE WOBURN FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK: Join James Meehan, Branch Manager, and Mayor Edward Gilgun in the traditional "ribbon" cutting ceremonies at the new branch in the North Woburn Shopping Center. called a comforting trend to those whose education is being sacrificed along the way. The young people in this town who will be going through the Wilmington public schools from now through the next fifteen or twenty years deserve a better fate.

What if the predicted drop in population does not, in fact, hit our town? The metropolitan areas will no doubt show a decrease, but there is no guarantee that Wilmington itself will feel its effect in the area of school population. In fact, it would appear that the new building boom that is suddenly being felt here would assure us that our school building crisis is going to get a lot worse before it gets better. To suffer through is not really a viable alternative since the extent to which one must suffer educationally will extend far beyond all reason.

In relation to Mr. Wiberg's comment about the year-round school, I can only say that the School Committee did study this option extensively. A sub-committee of the School Committee together with a committee of administrators met in many long and arduous meetings for a period exceeding one full year to study this problem. Two members of the School Committee joined study their celebrated 45-15 plan of school organization. This study and its subsequent report, provided the impetus for the formation of the formal study group. The sub-committee presented its report to the full School Committee on April 6, 1972, at its regular open meeting. The report, which is rather lengthy, recommends that the School Committee not establish a year-round school plan as a reasonable method of avoiding school construction at this time. The report gives many reasons for its recommendations which it carefully documents.

It should also be stated that advanced publicity was given to this topic being on the April 6th agenda, and not one citizen showed up to hear the report. Many called prior to the meeting to say they were interested, but none came to the meeting. A complete copy of this report was placed in the public library, and a limited number of them are available through my office. I shall be happy to discuss the report in detail with anyone interested.

Please be assured that the School Committee has carefully considered several other alternatives. Their final recommendation may or not be the most popular choice for the taxpayer to face, but it certainly has been the most thoroughly discussed educational topic of the past two years.

Sincerely,

Walter H. Pierce

Fishing is fun, but do be careful of fishhooks! Some of the worst common wounds are caused by fishhook carelessness.

When you are presented with an embedded fishhook, here are some well-known rules to follow: first, if possible, avoid pulling the fishhook out the same way it went in. It is better to push the hook out at another point and cut off the barb. Otherwise, you risk doing worse damage than has already been done.

Apply disinfectant and a sterile gauze pad. Examine the hook carefully. If it shows any signs of being dirty, or rusty, or if it is deeply embedded, call a doctor to avoid tetanus.

For invalids - time moves slowly. Make them comfortable with convalescent aids available at Silver Lake Pharmacy, 52 Main St., Wilmington. We sell or rent hospital beds, walkers, wheel chairs, canes and crutches. Phone 658-4617.

Helpful Hint: A mild disinfectant cream is always best for small children since it will not cause the child added pain.

Dear Larz:

In 1965, I applied for a building permit to build a house on Andover Street and was turned down because the Town Hall said 400 feet was too close to the brook which enters the well field. To make a long story short, it cost me $300 in legal fees etc. to make them understand they had to abide by the by-law which they wrote as well as I did. The by-law at the time said no disposal systems within 175 feet from any brook which enters into any public well-field. I was 400 feet from it.

Now I see a developer is dumping all the polluted water from the pits on Ainsworth Road directly into the brook directly in front of the pumping station. This is to say nothing of what will come down the pipe once the land is developed.

The part that really bothers me is when I have asked a number of town officials what is going on, from Selectmen on down and up, all I get is a shrug of the shoulders, and they know nothing (Someone must have issued some kind of a permit?).

I understand operations have stopped on the project, but the second part that bothers me is how anything like this can even get started without some questions being asked from some Town officials!

The developer has left these ditches wide open and full of water, has infringed upon town owned land and violated many other code laws.

The loss of a pickerel fishing hole is a very moot point to make with a half page write up, if the completion of this job sees the town scuttling our entire water system for who knows what. This town has the best water and water department in this state, but it may not be for long!

Remember the Depression in the 1930's?

For the past ten days or so, students of Wilmington High School have been calling residents of Wilmington who might be classed as "old timers", wanting to talk about Wilmington in the days of the so-called Depression. If the reader is searching for a "switch" one of the calls has been to the editor of the Town Crier, from two students who wanted to interview him.

Many of those called have themselves called the editor of the Town Crier, suggesting that he do the work. They feel themselves incapable.

The following is submitted, not as a story of Wilmington, during the depression, but rather as the impressions of one man, who was serving at sea and occasionally visited his home town. It is not to invite unending arguments about details, but rather to give impressions, after a lapse of approximately forty years. Ed.

Where does one start talking about Wilmington in the depression? Does the talk start on the day that President Roosevelt closed the banks? Does it go back to an earlier year?

The writer feels that, in part at least, it has to go back to the first decade of the twentieth century - when street cars were part of an expanding civilization, and when real estate promoters were selling camping site lots, in all the towns twenty miles or so from Boston which could be reached by street car.

Wilmington was one of those towns - particularly in the Silver Lake area, and another similar site was in the Pinehurst part of Billerica. Real estate speculators bought up abandoned farms, and cut them up into small lots, in some cases 35 feet by 70 feet. The idea was to sell three or four such lots, or maybe more, to a buyer. But there were some who bought only two, and ended up with awfully small camping lots.

The Town Clerk of Wilmington in those days was a second generation Irishman named James Kelley. He was a rather hard nosed gentleman who welcomed the camps, as an extra source of tax revenue. "We collect the taxes" was his message - "and Boston pays for the education of their children".

Jim Kelley was not alone in his thinking.

It was a relatively gay time, in the mid twenties. The street cars came out from Boston, and fares were cheap. Silver Lake was sort of a mecca.

The Wilmington farms were disappearing, one by one. Only if the farmer were able to sell directly to the consumer did he receive an adequate return.

More and more, as campers came to Wilmington, the people of Wilmington went to Boston for their daily toil - or, in the case of some laborers, to Woburn and the leather shops there. Fifty cents an hour was good pay for a laborer, who worked eight hours a day, six days a week.

Wilmington High School was something to be proud of. Today the school building is called the Swain School.

Any boy who graduated with honors was able to enroll directly into Harvard, without any qualifying examination. Several of the six or seven boys in the class of 1928 did so. There were three girls in that class - one of whom went to Radcliffe.

Those boys who did not go on to college looked for jobs, of course. One of the best to get in those days was clerking for the Boston and Maine Railroad. Not everybody could do this. One who did was a boy named Clarence Putnam, and it wasn't too long before he was driving one of the first Chryslers to be seen in Wilmington.

Autos were an ambition of every boy, and perhaps for his dad too. Maybe there was a car for every other family - most certainly not every family had one. There was a Model T Ford runabout which was considered to be quite the thing, in Eastern Massachusetts. The writer cannot recall one of them being in Wilmington.

The girls who did not go to college, and who had taken what was called a business course, in High School, got jobs in the insurance companies in Boston. The pay wasn't much, and there wasn't much real encouragement their goal was considered to be marriage, and why should a company waste time on an employee who was only going to work a few years?

Today the world is filled with plaintive cries from youngsters about "there isn't much to do". No one seems to have looked at things that way, during the twenties nor during the depression years. There were movies in the Grange Hall, and a couple of hundred kids walked down to that place on Saturday evening. Then a movie theatre was built in Wilmington Square. Under it was a bowling alley.

The Wilmington Fire Department had become motorized, during the latter half of the twenties. Fire engines built by the men in the Department - volunteers. It wasn't Engine One and Engine Two - but the Ford or the Reo.

This is a brief, perhaps too brief picture of Wilmington as it went into the depression years. There were perhaps 3000 inhabitants of the town, in 1930.

Almost imperceptibly the world finances had gone askew. World War I had long since been finished, but financially it was still a problem. Countries were unable or unwilling to pay their debts - all except little Finland. Gradually the malaise spread. The people perhaps did not understand, but there were firms which had to cut costs - 10% pay cuts became the order of the day. Suddenly there were no new jobs - just the old ones to hang on to.

The writer was serving as Fourth Mate on an ocean steamship. His pay was $120 a month. Then it was cut to $108. Then it was cut to $75. This seemed terrible - the Mate in charge of the Watch, for $75 a month.

The steamship company that owned the competing ships went further. They fired all their Fourth Mates.

The writer remembers talking to a store keeper about the $75 a month pay. It was here in Wilmington that the conversation took place. He was amazed that the writer considered this to be terrible - he didn't make that much money, some months - and he had taxes to pay and a family to support.

Wilmington men who worked in offices in Boston were being paid $20 a week, in some instances. They had their train fare to pay - and of course taxes.

School teachers had their pay cut to $800 a year. It was a fortunate school teacher who was able to live with her parents - that is, if her daddy had a job.

The School Committee, not formally, but almost gradually changed the emphasis in education in the Wilmington schools. Scholarship was not the big thing; jobs were. The time would arrive before World War II, when a School Committee member boasted that there were more girls from Wilmington working in John Hancock (Insurance) than from almost any other town.

Those summer camps, that Jim Kelley had welcomed. They became winter homes, as Boston families became dispossessed, and moved to Wilmington. Cardboard and newspapers were tacked up to the walls, in many instances, to keep out the winter cold. Why there were only a few cases of house fire is a marvel - except for that type of house fire that the then Town Counsel, Philip Buzzell, termed "overheated insurance".

Many of those camps, winterized with cardboard and newspapers, have since become substantial homes. It was literally a case of people pulling themselves up by their bootstraps.

No one who went through those depression years has ever forgotten them. The lesson was burned deeply, into the minds of men.

There was at that time a tremendous propaganda machine which tried to lay all the blame at the feet of the out-going president. The writer felt that this propaganda was wrong in conception and wrong in application. He still does. Mr. Hoover was an honorable man and the forces that caused the depression were beyond the scope and power of his office. He has related, with dignity, the circumstances that led to the bank closing of 1933, for those who care to read it.

Be that as it may, the bank closing was a tremendous shock. Mr. Roosevelt took the nation off the gold standard, and that was another tremendous shock. There were bread lines. Roosevelt formed several agencies to cope with the problems, agencies such as the Works Progress Administration, called the WPA, and the Conservation Corps, called the CCC.

There were Wilmington boys who went into the CCC. They worked in the woodlands of Massachusetts. There was plenty to eat, and the pay was $30 a month. Army officers administered the camps. Joseph Beaton, now a teacher in Wilmington High School was one of those boys, and he remembers that he got more than the men in the Army who got $21 a month. One of the officers was a man named Alden Eames, still a resident of Wilmington.

There were a lot of jokes about the WPA - pictures of people shoveling dirt in opposite directions and asking "how long have you been working for the government?" But the WPA accomplished things other than the proverbial leaf raking.

Perhaps it was not, as has been charged, utilized to its full extent in Wilmington. Tewksbury got a new high school, built by WPA labor. Wilmington got a new wing to the Town Hall, and a rebuilding of the aqueduct in the Town Park.

Eddy Manning, 1928 Wilmington High Grad, and a 1932 Cum Laude from Harvard was happy to get a clerk's job on the WPA. Maybe he earned $15 a week. He worked on the project of rebuilding the aqueduct in the Town Hall, where the old Middlesex Canal crossed the Maple Meadow Brook. The writer's daddy was the stonemason on that job. The pay wasn't much, but it was money - it would buy something to eat.

Mr. Manning went on to be elected to the School Committee, at the early age of 21. He was probably the youngest, elected official in modern years, in Wilmington.

There was quite a work force in that WPA. Charles Black, himself out of a job, the writer believes, was the clerk in charge.

There was a committee in charge of direct relief, too. Postmaster Henry Porter served in that committee, with Gardner Ritchie and Mrs. Augustus Norton. They took their job seriously.

One of the high lights of the depression years in Wilmington was Harriman's Tannery. Unlike other businesses, it never closed down. Caleb Harriman was a hard man, and a just man. He had men who had been working for him for years, like Sylvine Melanson and Johnny Meuse and Aristides Brabant. They never lost a days pay. It was only in later years, after the death of Mr. Harriman, that the tannery began to close down.

Harriman hired a lot of young fellows as they came out of High School. They were strong as bulls, and they didn't want to work for the WPA. He put them into the lime pits, and to throwing hides - not exactly pleasant circumstances - but the pay was $24.85 a week, and that was nearly $5 more than married men, working in Boston and paying train fares every day were getting. Young Joe Ring was one of those young fellows - he was to lose his life in World War II. Another, was Danny Gillis, now a Selectman of Wilmington. Caleb Harriman was rough and tough, but he was a good man to work for, if a man wanted to work. And he kept his help employed.

Track men conclude Season

Sixth in the state that's what Bill Badiali had to be content with following last weekend's State Meet Finals. Out of the hundreds of low hurdlers in the state of Massachusetts who started the season, only six were to qualify for the state finals. Tri-captain Bill Badiali was one of them.

Much to Bill's disappointment, he finished sixth and out of any place points. Earlier in the day, last Saturday Bill placed third in his quarter final heat and second in the semi-finals. This was not to be his day, however, as his time of 20.8 was not good enough to catch the runners in front of him.

Jackie Barry was not as fortunate in the high hurdles. His sixth place finish in the quarter finals failed to permit him to advance any further in competition. Two records that Jack set during the season are testimony enough of the fine year he had.

Wildcats fifth in Decathlon

Fifteen schools participated in the two day ten event meet at Tenney High School in Methuen on Monday and Tuesday afternoons and the Wildcats placed fifth in the over all team score with 9101 points.

Three runners are chosen from each school and all runners must participate in all ten events except pole vault or triple jump (participant's choice). Bill Badiali (sixth out of 43 runners), Jack Barry and sophomore Bruce Bishop were Coach Kelley's choices to represent the Wildcats.

Badiali picked up a total of

Summer Library programs Begin June 26th

Under the direction of Mrs. Sara Rueter, Children's Librarian, registrations for the pre-school and summer reading programs will be accepted at the Library between 9 am and 5 pm, beginning on June 12th and continuing through June 16th.

The nine week schedule will run from June 26th thru August 24th. Separate pre-school story hour groups for four and five year olds will meet once a week for forty-five minutes, Monday thru Thursday mornings. Six year olds who have not yet started school, may join the five year old groups.

The best in children's literature will be introduced through the use of records, filmstrips, flannel board, games and simple crafts as well as through traditional reading aloud and storytelling.

Reading groups for older children up through the sixth grade will be held once a week on Tuesday afternoons during June and July. Special events planned for this age group for July and August will be announced at a later date.

In order to receive the necessary registration materials and to clarify any questions about either program, all youngsters must register in person.

MEASLES VACCINE CLINIC SATURDAY, JUNE 3RD

A special clinic for children who received the measles vaccine before they were one year of age will be held on Saturday morning, June 3rd from 9:30 to 11:30 at the Board of Health Office, Town Hall Annex (Old Library), 150 Middlesex Avenue.

During the years 1963-66 it was recommended that measles vaccine be given to children as early as nine months of age. It has since been found that immunizations before one year of age interfered with protective levels of immunity. Since many cases of measles are now occurring in this group, it is recommended that any child who received measles, unless he has already had the disease.

New books at Memorial Library

"Chiricahua" by Will Henry: An explosive, collision story involving an Apache army scout, a U.S. cavalry troop, and the band of treacherous Chiricahua warriors. Riding across the 1883 southeast Arizona territory, the warriors aim to destroy the oncoming stagecoach and all its white occupants.

"Hosannah the Home Run: Poems about Sports" selected by Alice Fleming: No longer does just "Casey at the Bat" come to mind when poetry and sports are combined. This slim volume that extols athletic activities from fishing and football to tennis and track - 14 sports ring and sing in poetic form.

"Landscape Painting Step-by-Step" by Leonard Richmond: Revised and up-dated, giving additional advice and information on designing, sketching, focusing, interpreting, and executing all the practical elements needed in producing a creditable work.

"Olympic Games Handbook" by David Chester: A special 1972 quick reference issue giving complete results and records, illustrations and brief history of ancient and modern Olympic games.

"Optimist's Daughter" by Eudora Welty: The past is recalled as Laurel Hand returns to her Mississippi home-town and at her father's death relives her life and its values as opposed to those of her young stepmother and her former neighbors.

"Out of the Dark" by Nora Loftis: Based on an actual unsolved murder in Victorian England, this story of false accusations leads a self-doubting Charlotte Cornwall to escape, only to have her tragic past reappear to haunt her in this psychological tale.

"Case of Kitty Ogilvie" by Jean Stubbs: A romantic novel based on a trial in 18th century Scotland. Love, disaster, murder and false accusations contribute their forces to this mystery.

"Dead of the House" by Hannah Green: Five generations of the closely knit Nye and DeGolyers families of Ohio provide the imaginative recollections and a semi-autobiographical background.

"Freer's Cove" by Ethel Gordon: A modern Gothic novel set on the dreary, rocky coast of Maine where near-tragedy stalks Daisy Holland in her attempt to escape the wreckage of her first marriage by creating a new life for herself and her baby - almost too late for each of them.

"Islands of Boston Harbor" by Edward Rowe Snow: Needing little inroduction, Snow's revision of this earlier work brings up to date this "romance of Boston Harbor".

"Oh Valley Green" by John H. Culp: The critical years of the annexation of Texas and California form the background for the westward movement of the Jacob Key family.

"Out of the Curtained World" by Nancy Henderson: A courageous retelling of the myriad paths and forces that led the young author to forsake the security, limitations, and pressures of the convent life for the more meaningful life and work she has found in the modern world outside.

"There Was a Season" by Theodore V. Olsen: A colorful biographical novel of Jefferson Davis and his romance with Sarah Knox Taylor, long before he became the tragic first president of the Confederacy.

"Is That My Hook in Your Ear?" by Ronald Pearsall: A light-hearted look at angling, all the fun and frustration of fishing.
